CHAPTER X CONTINUED.

The walls had been shaken down with terrible age; every block of stone was rounded smoothly by the blowing sand. The original level of the city had been much below the present. Levington shivered. He feit around him the faded life of another time, lingering human shadows tied to the stones. March moved solemnly over the tumbled pile, pausing before the languid sreen fire issuing from the moved. "I'm not saying."

Their path touched another, smaller ruin, more deeply sunken. One of the great blocks of stone remained on top, unbroken. This ancient city had been builded upon a river, for the course of it was still outlined between erosions. A gray skull, retaining all its teeth, was perched upon a point of rock, and the dusty sockets stared forever asstward. Andrew March regarded it thoughtfully.

"This most saying." moved solemnly over the tumbled pile, pausing before the languid green fire issuing from the rock. In the emptiness overhead they saw a bird, high up and black, sailing steadily, watching these two white intruders upon his dominion, seeming to wait with perfect patience until they should perish, and leave to him once more the crumbling. The sand was changing in tint as they rode westward, and to the more than the product of the shallows, their strata bronze and a flaky blue. to him once more the crumbling. flaky blue forgotten empire.

WHAT'S THIS? About Gray Hair.

Most remarkable results obtained, single application of Scheffler's March pretended not to notice the trembling of his voice. Both were trembling of his voice. Both were that Colorine restores original color, if you don't find this true you pay tattered garments. Then Con saw that his friend was smiling.

The colorine is absolutely barmless. Not sticky or dirty. Used that his friend was smiling.

For the Treatment of Leather thongs whipped out and circled Con's arms, and he was help-less. In a moment strong hands were undressing the white men. Colds, Grip and Influenza and to Fortify the System Against Colds, Grip and Influenza
